Content Research and Sourcing

3.1 Introduction.

I made a website for Tshipidi Bakery, a made-up bakery, for my website assignment. The website's objectives are to inform clients about the bakery, showcase its goods, advertise personalized cakes, and facilitate client communication.

I researched and created suitable content for each page of my website. Since Tshipidi Bakery is my own fictional organisation, I created most of the information myself. I also researched web-development resources and considered the use of free images, icons and other resources to make my website more attractive and user-friendly. Good website structure and clear content are important because HTML is used to structure website content while CSS is used to control its presentation and appearance

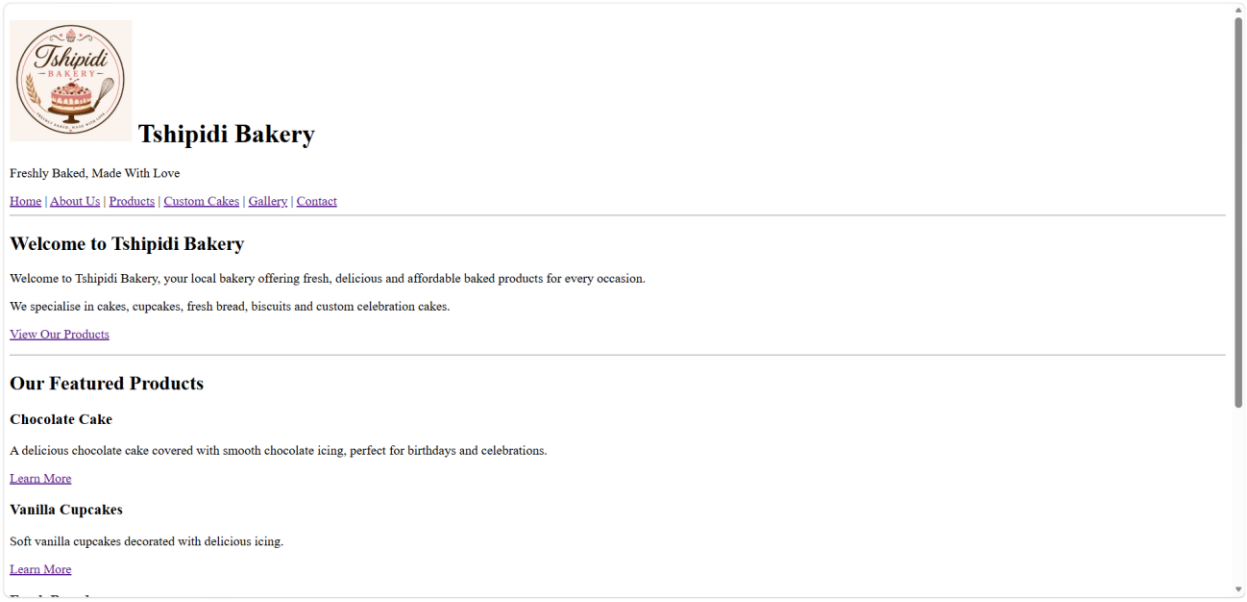

3.2 Home Page

When someone opens my website, the home page is the first thing they see. I created this page to give a brief overview of Tshipidi Bakery and entice users to browse the rest of the website.

The Tshipidi Bakery logo, a navigation menu, and a hero section may all be found on the home page. "Freshly Baked, Made With Love" and a brief synopsis of the bakery are included in the hero section. To bring users to the Products page, I also included a "View Our Products" button.

A part of the page showcases some of the bakery's specialty items, including bread, cakes, and cupcakes. To make the page more interesting, I added eye-catching product photos and succinct explanations. Along with a button that directs users to the About page, there is a brief description of the bakery.

ll put a call-to-action area at the bottom of the home site urging people to get in touch with the bakery for orders and custom cakes.

3.3 About Us Page

Visitors can learn more about Tshipidi Bakery by visiting the About Us page. I made this page to convey the bakery's aim and vision as well as its history.

Tshipidi Bakery was founded to offer fresh and reasonably priced baked goods to local clients, according to the page's brief history. I also mentioned the vision and mission of the bakery.

Mission

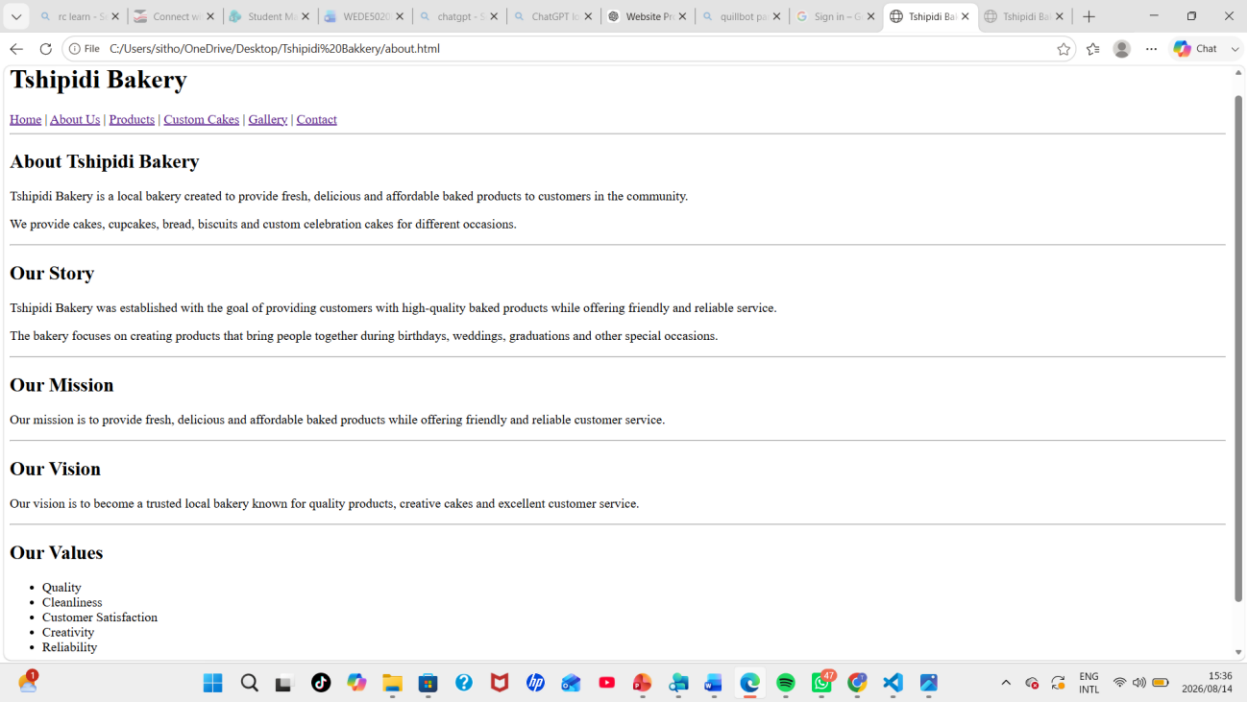

Tshipidi Bakery's goal is to deliver tasty, fresh, and reasonably priced baked goods together with dependable, amiable customer service.

Vision

Tshipidi Bakery's goal is to establish itself as a reputable neighborhood bakery with a reputation for high-quality goods, inventive creations, and top-notch customer support.

I also mentioned the bakery's core principles, which include dependability, quality, cleanliness, and customer pleasure.

Visitors can learn more about the bakery's values and reasons for selecting its goods by visiting the About Us website.

3.4 Products Page

One of the most crucial pages on my website is the Products page, which lets users view the goods that Tshipidi Bakery sells.

To make the page easier to navigate, I divided the products into various categories. The primary classifications consist of:

Cakes

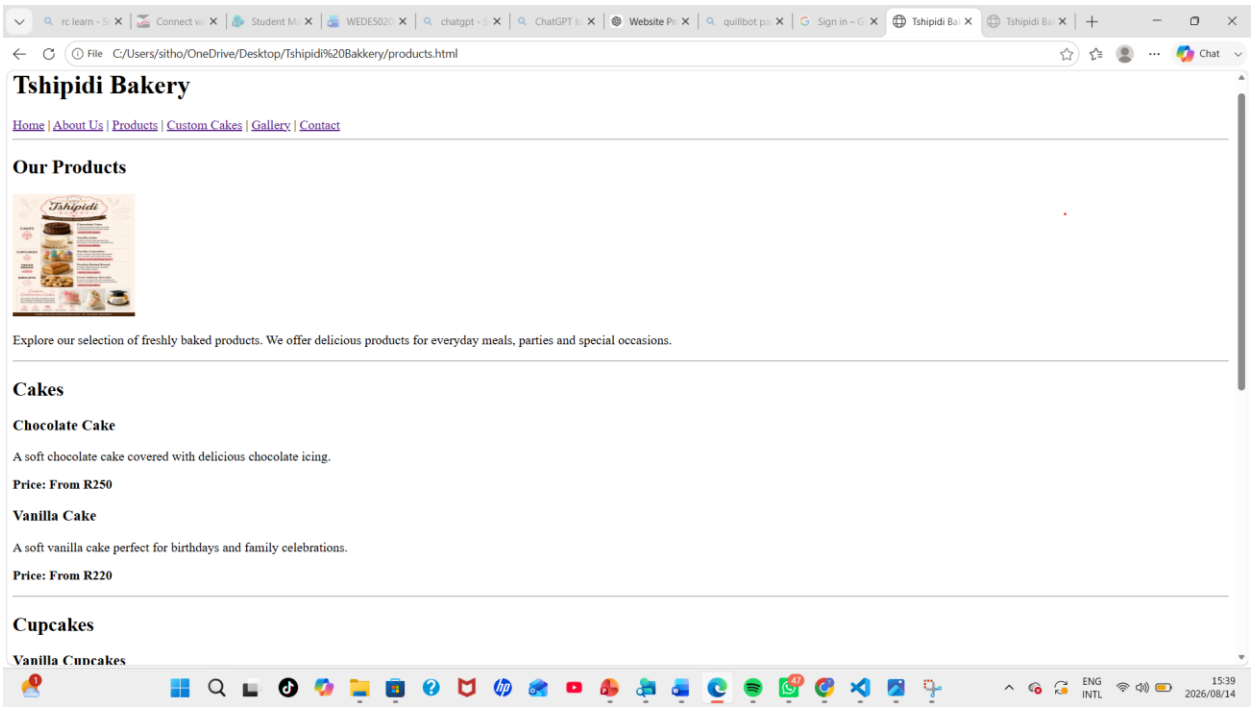

Cupcakes

Bread

Biscuits

Custom celebration cakes

Each product is displayed using a product image, product name, short description and price. I used product cards to make the information easy to read and visually appealing.

Example Product Information

Chocolate Cake
A soft and freshly baked chocolate cake covered with chocolate icing. It is suitable for birthdays and other celebrations.

Vanilla Cupcakes
Soft vanilla cupcakes decorated with smooth icing. They are suitable for parties, school events and small celebrations.

Fresh Bread
Freshly baked bread made for customers looking for a tasty product for everyday meals.

The Products page allows customers to quickly understand what Tshipidi Bakery offers before contacting the business.

3.5 Custom Cakes Page

I created a separate Custom Cakes page because customised cakes are an important service offered by Tshipidi Bakery.

The page explains that customers can request cakes for different occasions, including:

Birthdays

Weddings

Baby showers

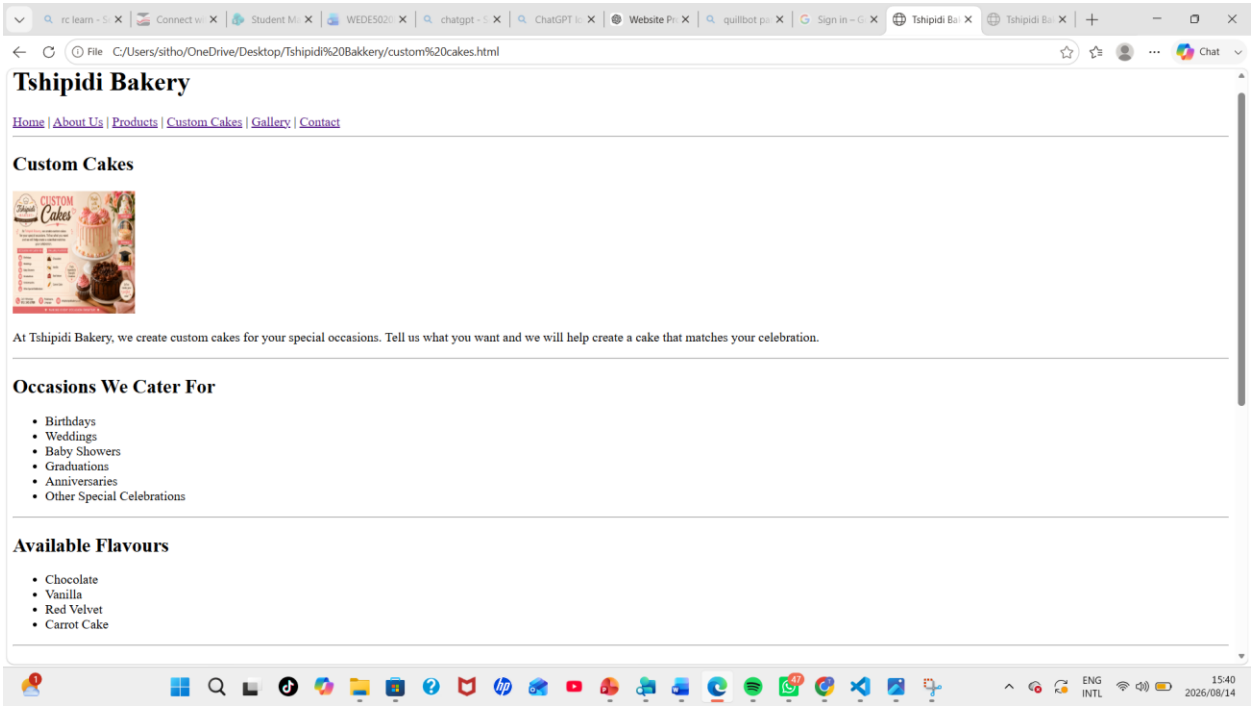

Graduations

Anniversaries

Other celebrations

I provided details on various cake designs and flavors. Consumers can select from a variety of flavors, including chocolate, vanilla, and red velvet. Additionally, I made a straightforward inquiry form that allows clients to enter details like their name, contact information, favorite cake flavor, cake size, event date, and design specifications.

The form's objective is to facilitate customers' communication of their needs to the bakery.

3.6 Gallery Page

The Gallery page displays photographs of Tshipidi Bakery's products. I included this page because images help customers understand the quality and appearance of the bakery's products.

The gallery contains images representing different products, including:

Birthday cakes

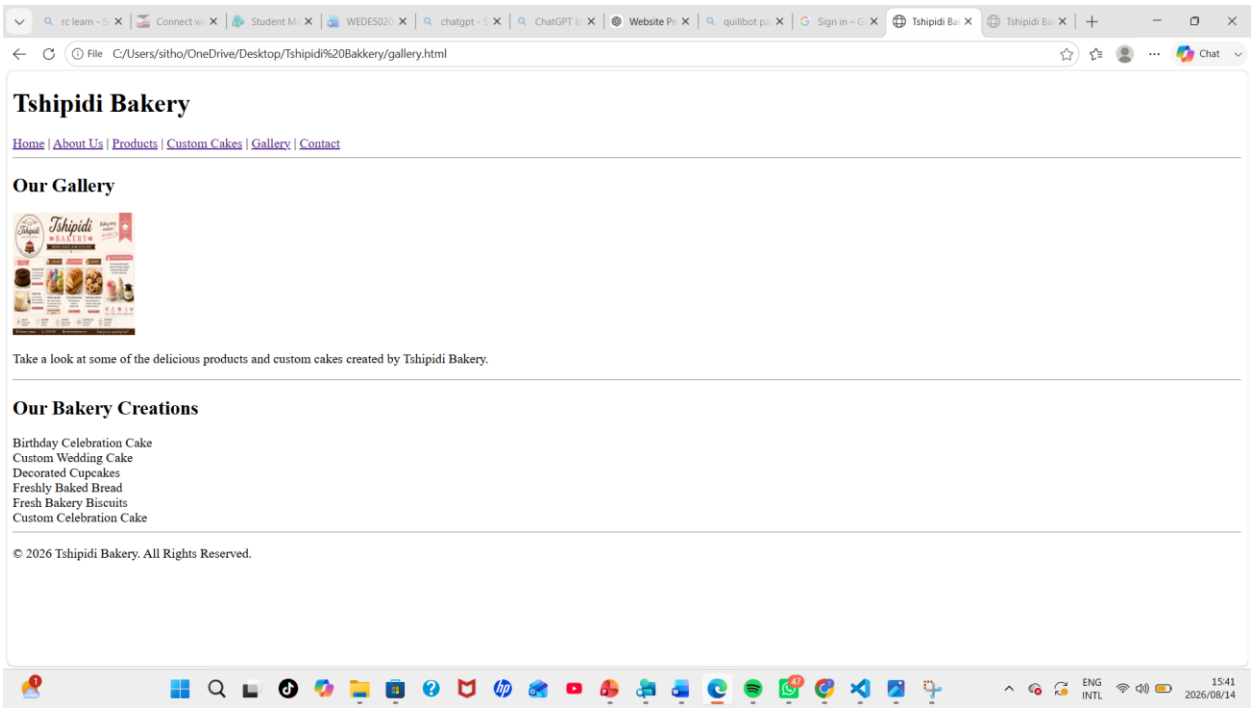

Wedding cakes

Cupcakes

Bread

Biscuits

Custom-designed cakes

3.7 Contact Page

The Contact page allows visitors to communicate with Tshipidi Bakery. I created this page to ensure that customers can easily find the information they need to contact the business.

The page contains:

Bakery name

Telephone/contact number

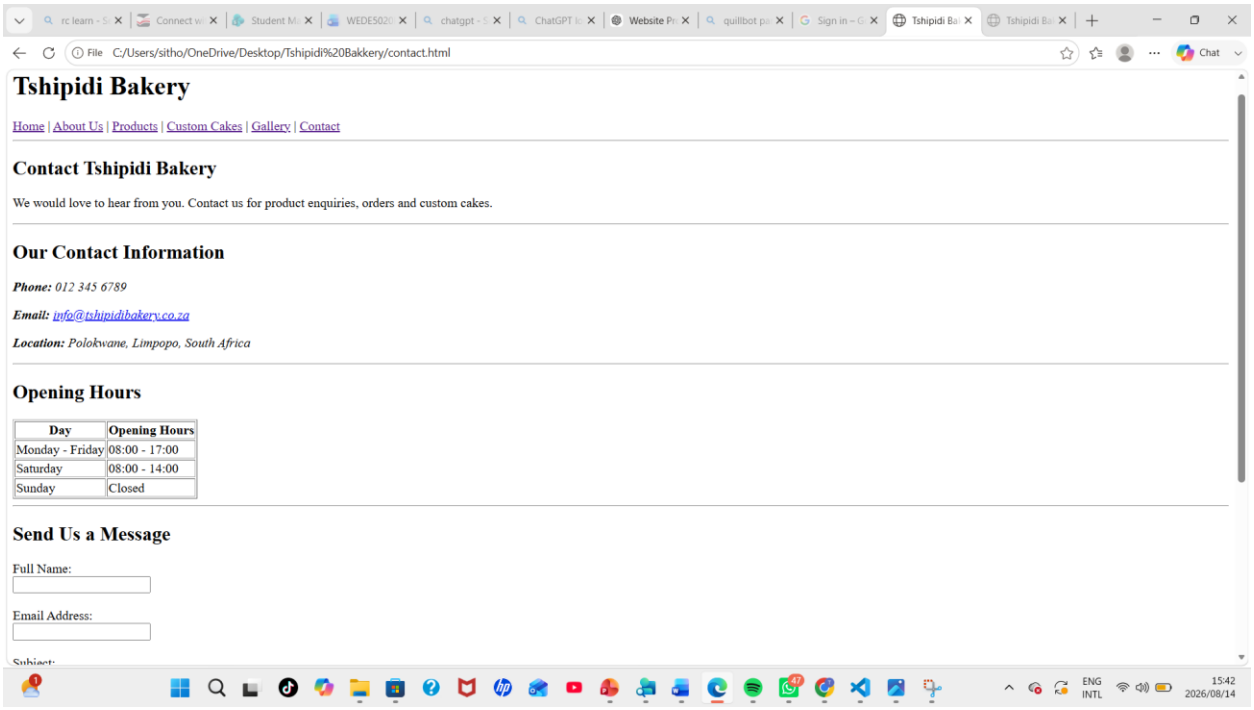

Email address

Location

Business hours

Contact form

Message field

3.8 Website Navigation

A visitor can submit their name, email address, subject, and message in the contact form. To help visitors understand what information is required, I also labeled the form fields clearly.

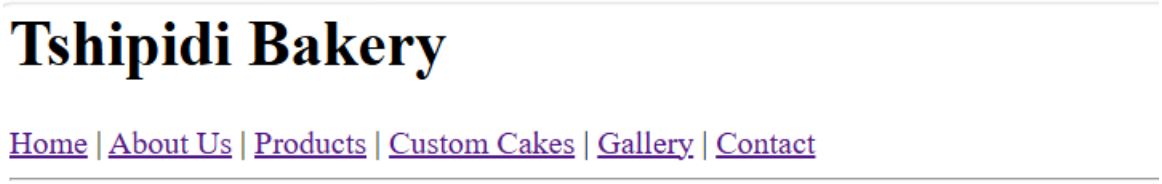

Customers are encouraged to contact the bakery regarding items, orders, or custom cakes with a clear call to action on the page.

I created a consistent navigation menu that appears across the main pages of my website. This allows visitors to move easily between different sections.

The navigation menu contains:

Home | About Us | Products | Custom Cakes | Gallery | Contact

The navigation structure helps users find information without having to search through the entire website. Clear and consistent navigation is an important part of creating a usable website.

3.9 Images and Other Resources

I used pictures to show visitors what the bakery products look like and to improve the website's esthetic appeal. I intended to use original photos of baked goods whenever I could. I choose reliable sources that offer free or properly licensed materials when external photographs are needed.
